THIS PHOTO: Memories of past trips to France abound in the butler's pantry, where Elizabeth displays her collection of antique silver platters. Refrigerator drawers, a coffee station, and a second sink ease entertaining duties. OPPOSITE: Hand-waxed wood floors in 7- and 10-inch planks visually unite the kitchen and butler's pantry. "I deliberately chose planks with knots in them to add character," Elizabeth says. "I didn't want perfect ones."

THIS PHOTO: A “floating” vanity, clear-glass pendants, and a wide mirror contribute to the ethereal quality in Kerri and Shane Hanson’s master bath. Kerri preferred a single large mirror—as big as the glassmaker could cut it—rather than two smaller ones for a clean look. OPPOSITE: Open shelving allows quick access to towels.

Perfect Compromise

*Differing
design tastes

FIELD EDITOR Cathy Still McGowin

An organic-shape soaking tub is the star of this peaceful contemporary bath. Glass partitions create a sense of divided space yet keep the room open and light.

Lateral Thinking

A visual feast of a bath uses simple silhouettes and symmetry to make a bold, contemporary statement.
