BASIN BOOM

No longer solely about function, today's sinks are designed for style and high performance.

1 Elkay's latest addition to its Quartz Luxe Collection features a handcrafted carbon-fiber front inspired by luxury yachts and cars. The tone-on-tone woven pattern has a high-tech look, making it the perfect accompaniment to a modern kitchen. Available in blue and black. $4,000. elkay.com

2 Ideal for small spaces and sculleries or as a replacement for the typical prep sink, Streamline Hoods' top-mount sink and dishwasher combination has all the cleaning power of a full-size dishwasher with a smaller footprint. $999. streamlinehoods.com

3 Ruvati's epiGranite sink offers a colorful alternative to stainless steel and is completely nonporous. It's resistant to heat, stains, and bacteria and available in eight colors. $489. ruvati.com

FITTED OUT

Create a cooking space that reflects your entertainment goals—indoors or on the patio.

1 Made to your specifications, Jenn-Air's 15" cooking modules allow the freedom to design a cooktop that inspires culinary creativity. Shown from left: Induction Wok, Two-Burner Gas Cooktop, and Chrome Griddle. Other cooking modules are available. From $899. jennair.com

2 Røshults's outdoor kitchen island offers flexibility in a sleek package. Select your island size (with or without an additional bar) and add up to eight 20" cooking and prep stations, choosing from cutting boards, sinks, grills, and a gas hob. Also available in anthracite. Price upon request. coutureoutdoor.com
