Stone and Sawyer's 20th century-inspired tabletop lighting includes the Miller, Hilo, and Laurel fixtures, shown here in an Obsidian glaze and natural linen shade. Each stoneware lamp body is produced by hand in the company's studio in the Catskills in New York. STONEANDSAWYER.COM

The multi-textural Odyssey collection from Woven Concepts is inspired by NASA imagery. Distressed wool and natural silk are hand-knotted to create three levels of visual and tactile fabric with an industrial-modern aesthetic. WOVENCONCEPTS.COM

Victoria + Albert's freestanding Pescadero bathtub, available in seven external finishes, features a dynamic undulating rim that forms an asymmetrical wave, mimicking the sea. With its double-ended bathing well, the bath is deep, yet boasts a compact footprint. VANDABATHS.COM

Pris from Pelle can be installed as a wall sconce (shown), ceiling flush-mount, or suspended from a pipe to create a single pendant. Each fixture is created with a set of length-adjustable linear arms that attach to jewel-shaped connectors, fitted with up and down diffusers, and provides ample, warm LED light. The Zura collection from Delta Faucet marries rounded, rectangular, and triangular elements. The pendant raincan showerhead includes an internal system that sculpts the water into a wave pattern, and, like all showerheads in the series, features H2OkinetiC technology.
