Simply Serene

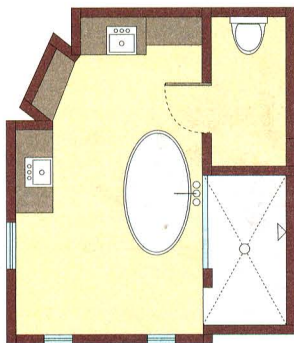

A soaking tub, teak walkway and open shower lend a Japanese aesthetic

WISH LIST

- ✓ Feeling inspired by a Japanese teahouse
- ✓ Big walk-in shower
- ✓ Oval, free-form tub

ALTHOUGH THE EXTERIOR OF THE HOUSE WAS TRADITIONAL, the young couple who built and furnished it asked the design/build team at Orren Pickell Designers & Builders to make their interior strikingly modern, says architectural designer Jason DeBaker, managing principal with the company, who oversaw this project. In the master bathroom, DeBaker used the bathing elements as architectural focal points: a 6'-long oval tub with a deep lip was placed directly in front of a 9' x 5½' walk-in shower that's visible through a big "picture-window" wall. DeBaker also paved a 3'-wide walkway to the shower in teak. To further the serene mood, he lined the walls with large travertine blocks bordered with dark brown granite bands. He floated vanity cabinets off the ground and topped them with honed limestone countertops. Walls were painted a calming and complementary sepia hue. For fun, there's a flat-screen TV in an angled cabinet, which also houses towels; a separate water closet concealed by a space-saving pocket door; and a heated floor for chilly winter mornings and nights.
