It has a rimless wash system, two large jets at the back of the bowl, and an open rim that allows a significant flow of water into the bowl. It uses 1.28 gallons per flush. icerausa.com / CIRCLE 864

RUTT CABINETRY

The Exeter line draws from the work of early modernist Sir Edwin Lutyens. Measuring 1¼ inches thick, the door is heftier than most to accommodate the vertical and horizontal banding that lend the recessed panel dimension and depth. It's available with decorative moldings and solid brass pulls.

STERLINGHAM COMPANY

What looks like a traditional sink stand is actually a washstand with a built-in towel warmer. Made from solid brass, the energy-efficient unit runs on nearly the same amount of electricity as a light bulb. It comes in a wall-mount, two-leg washstand with two towel warmer rails or a wall-mount, four-leg washstand with three towel warmer rails.
