Creating a Spa Home Bath

MTI Baths New Freestanding Tub Models offer a decidedly smaller footprint.

(Sugar Hill, GA. February 2, 2018) Looking for a way to turn your bathroom into a spa-like retreat? Consider replacing your old built-in tub with a luxurious new freestanding one. MTI Baths makes it easy with two new tub models that will retrofit in a 66" alcove.

The brand's new version of the Alissa (shown above) meets the popular desire for a 66" tub. With the same, clean and simple lines that are proportioned as the larger 72" freestanding oval bathtub, it features an integral pedestal and integrated slotted overflow. The new Alissa model 231 measures a compact 64-5/8" long x 33-1/2" wide x 21-5/8" tall, yet with MTI's single-wall SculptureStone® construction, the bathing well is incredibly spacious.

The new Elise 230 model is a spacious, organically-shaped bathtub with as small a footprint as the Alissa. With the same shape and proportioned as the larger 72" model, this latest version of the Elise tub also meets the popular desire for more compact tubs.

Offered in white or biscuit, matte or gloss finish, the tubs can be ordered as a soaking tub or as a therapeutic air bath. Both are constructed of MTI's signature one-piece SculptureStone® material; which is 100% solid, non-porous and stain, mold and mildew-resistant, making cleaning and maintenance easy.
