

A WORKHORSE OF A WORKSTATION

Ruvati takes kitchen functionality to a whole new level with their new 45" long, two tiered Workstation Sink.

The kitchen sink has certainly moved with the times. It started its life as a bustling part of the kitchen and has now transformed into a well-equipped central spot where all of the prep and clean-up tools can come together. Ruvati has created the ultimate full-fledged work space with their innovative new 45" Workstation Sink featuring an array of accessories that slide on double tiered tracks.

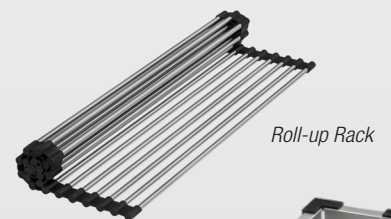

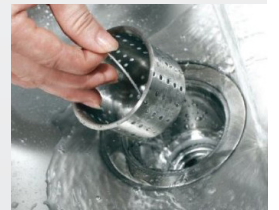

The sink includes two cutting boards that will fit on either the top or lower track, so you can slide one on top of the other. The cutting boards are flat on one side, but when flipped, convert into a tray with raised edges. The two cutting boards placed side by side will add extra space for food-prep or entertaining. The reversible cutting boards are constructed of sapele wood (African Mahogany) – a luxurious hardwood with a beautiful finish that is incredibly durable and water-resistant.

Also included are one deep and one shallow stainless steel colander that slide on the lower track. The roll-up rack fits on the top track and is ideal as a dish drying rack. It is constructed of stainless steel bars and a flexible silicone frame allowing you to fold it to the right size or roll it up tightly for storage when not in use. Two stainless steel rinse grids sit on the bottom of the sink and protect the sink bottom during daily use, and provide a space to dry dishes or large pots and pans.

Crafted in premium grade stainless steel with a 10" deep bowl, this spacious sink looks great in both a contemporary or traditional setting. Engineered for perfect water drainage, it features a 1" slope from one end of the sink to the drain, which includes a removable Basket Strainer for easy clean-up. The sink is also reversible so it can be installed with the drain on left side or right side. With the extra large size and all the built-in accessories, the Ruvati Workstation sink is designed for maximum efficiency as you work.
