Places To Go and Stuff You'll Love

Join My Home Improvement magazine for the NARI Atlanta Tour of Remodeled Homes. Hosted on Sept. 15, attendees can visit homes transformed by the organization's members and chat with contractors about how to make their own design dreams come true. Plus, proceeds from this year's tour will benefit Camp Sunshine. AtlantaRemodelingTour.com

Now through Aug. 26, see a "waste sculpture" containing the 1,656 pounds of food the average American family of four squanders each year at the exhibit FOOD: Our Global Kitchen at Fernbank Museum of Natural History.

The expo also explores our historical connection to cuisine while examining how food is grown and distributed today. 767 Clifton Rd. NE., Atlanta. FernbankMuseum.org

For a classically elegant design detail, turn to the new Vintage Crystal knob collection by Nostalgic Warehouse. Choose from three variations with raised embellishments, an enhanced traditional design, and historic influences. Plus, the solid forged brass backplates are built to withstand high-traffic areas. Order them from Masterpiece Lighting. 558 14th St. NW., Atlanta. NostalgicWarehouse.com

Adored by craftsmen of the 13th century, alabaster was once a difficult decorative material to come by. Thanks to Ann Sacks, this coveted mineral can now be easily acquired with the launch of its Alabaster tile. Cut from quarried alabaster in Spain, this tile features ivory tones with slight veining and unique translucency. See it at the Kohler Signature Store Alpharetta. 7300 N. Point Pkwy., Alpharetta.
