

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Los Angeles, CA – July 28, 2014

Steam punk style is red-hot right now as new fans discover its eclectic mix of Victorian-inspired retro and mechanical chic. Taking inspiration from the turn-of-century Industrial Age with a touch of sci-fi style, the steam punk movement is known for its heavy emphasis on exposed pipework and liberal use of metal and interesting textures. This look is a natural fit for fashion-forward Atlas Homewares, and their new Steam Punk Collection of pulls and handles is very much on-trend with this innovative style.

"The steam punk movement fits the Atlas design aesthetic to a tee," said Adrienne Morea, founder and president of Atlas Homewares. "It was inspired by turn-of-the-century style, the industrial revolution, the working of a society growing in a modern age. In other words, it's retro with a modern edge – which is the Atlas look."

Atlas Homewares offers the Steam Punk Collection in a variety of sizes ranging from 34 mm to 192 mm. Crafted to resemble industrial plumbing fixtures, the look is clean and contemporary but definitely rooted in bygone eras. The new line is available in Brushed Nickel and two stylish new finishes, Graphite - a rich complex grey and Vintage Brass - an unlacquered brass that never needs maintenance. The Steam Punk Collection is priced from $7.90 to $16.90.
