SWIVEL SPOUT

For its two new pull-down kitchen faucets, K410 and SK222, Lenova adds a new finish, Matte Black, to offer glamour to any design aesthetic and to reboot the glossy black finish trend popularized in the '90s. Both faucets are made of 304 stainless steel, are void of any lead content, and feature a two-function sprayer with 360-degree swivel spout. For more info circle 801

METAL CHIC

In answer to the growing trend of mixing metals, the Nio kitchen faucet collection from Moen allows users to swap the handle with a complementary accent finish. Nio is available in Chrome, Spot Resist Stainless (shown), and Matte Black finishes; a new Black Stainless finish will be available later in 2019. The faucet comes with two handles—one in the faucet finish, and an alternate handle in a secondary finish.

FINE FINISHES

Expanding its collection of finishes, Graff now offers Gunmetal, Gunmetal Distressed (shown), Onyx PVD, OR'osa PVD (a rose gold hue), Unfinished Brass, and Unfinished Brushed Brass for its kitchen and bath faucets. Both Gunmetal profiles are soft-touch with faded edges, made using a galvanized plating process and finished with wax, mixing warm brown and dark gray tones.

SLEEK SHAPE

Available in November 2019, the Klyne suite of bathroom faucets from Kallista is influenced by geometric shapes and forms, adding depth to the brand's Live Artfully design motif, along with its existing Grid Collection. The Widespread Sink Faucet is cantilevered with a narrow spout and comes in two versions: Klyne (shown) and Klyne Pure.

LONDON LINE

Offered in four finishes—English Gold, Polished Chrome, Polished Nickel, and Satin Nickel—the Hoxton series lavatory faucet from Perrin & Rowe is inspired by its namesake, London's East End neighborhood. The Single Hole, Single Lever faucet (shown) is made by hand, rather than mass-produced, and is part of the manufacturer's suite that also includes a tub filler and other accessories. For more info circle 804
