Fascinating Finishes

In 2022, it is not just the broad palette of available colors making our mouths water, but the unique use of finish that produces something truly new and unique. 20▶

Product Developments

Advancements in materials and product design produce flooring, lighting, insulation, and software solutions that solve the common problems giving architects headaches.

Tile & Stone Trends 2022

From large, bold statement pieces to fresh finishes, high-contrast patterns, and 3D shapes, see the latest in tile and stone driving the design of stunning spaces.

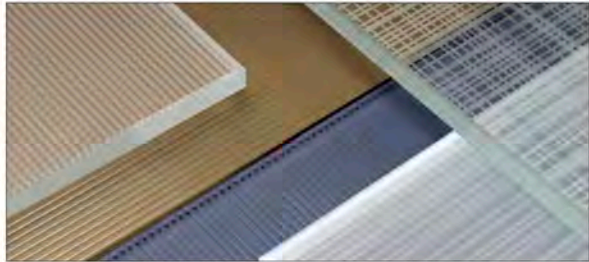

EMBRACING THE KNOB

Featuring a unique industrial design, HamatUSA's Knob Collection is comprised of a linear spout that curves and ends at a right angle against a vertical cylindrical head. Designed by Tel Aviv architect Oshir Asaban, the faucets are made from premium 316 stainless steel and finished with a unique mix of polishing and brushing techniques. Faucet handles rotate only forward to eliminate the risk of hitting a backsplash or window casing.

PRIVATE, YET OPEN

With many Americans returning to the office either full time are via a hybrid arrangement, workplaces must be equipped to balance transparency and openness with privacy. Helping architects and owners strike this balance, Bendheim has expanded its Prospero collection of textured, etched and carved designs in low-iron, ultra-clear, grey and bronze 3/8-in.-thick tempered glass. Offering a lead time for fabricating, polishing and tempering the glass in as little as two weeks, these privacy partitions are well suited for offices, hospitality and healthcare applications.

CREATE A COMFORTABLE CONCRETE JUNGLE

Made with innovative yarn and tufting technology, Milliken carpet is comfortable, resembles concrete, and has a reduced carbon footprint. Using less raw material than its competitors, the D/LUX series is an ode to the concrete jungle. The Comfortable Concrete Collection is available in dark and light neutrals, with expressive pops of color, including Arctic Blue, Cool Flame and Molten Plum.
